And then I can select a text box and then I want to select a word (like in a text editor) and then I want to run a macro (like in a text editor). Text box I can select a word and run a macro. I need to perform multiple actions to multiple pieces of text within one text box. For example: 1. Copy a paragraph of text. 2. Paste the text in another place (text box). 3. Select a word in the text and run a macro. 4. Select another word in the text and run a macro. 5. Select another word in the text and run a macro. 6. Repeat step 3-5 until all words of that paragraph have been selected and macros have been run. It has to be this way because there are a lot of paragraphs in the document. I need to put these paragraphs under a certain text box. To be clear: the paragraph might be spread over multiple lines. It should be possible to check a number of elements in one text box and delete that element. I need to check if an element contains a certain text, delete that element if it does. I need to check if an element is empty, delete that element if it does. And there should be a command to delete all elements in a text box if I want to delete all elements. I also need to check a number of elements in one text box. Select all elements which are not the first element in a text box. Select all elements which are the first element in a text box. Select all elements which are the second element in a text box. Select all elements which are not the third element in a text box. Select all elements which are the
